

e-learning symposium 2013

The LLAS Centre's 8th annual
e-learning symposium

24-25 January 2013
University of Southampton, UK
www.llas.ac.uk/elearning2013

This year's symposium is bigger than ever!

Main themes for this symposium are:

- Innovative tools for teaching
- Digital literacy for staff and students
- QR codes in teaching
- iTunesU
- Augmented reality
- Innovative grammar teaching
- MOOCS and language study

Follow the conference on Twitter at #elearnLLAS

Register now and take advantage of the early bird rate!

Keynote speakers

Professor Mike Neary
Dean of Teaching and Learning at the University of Lincoln

Professor Allison Littlejohn
Chair of Learning Technology, Glasgow Caledonian University, Director of the Caledonian Academy

Professor Gráinne Conole
Professor of Learning Innovation, University of Leicester

Nik Peachey
Freelance learning technology consultant

Workshops

Workshop A: Fiona Harvey and Lisa Harris, University of Southampton
Digital literacy: living and learning on the Web

Workshop B: Kirsten Sontgens, University of Southampton
Blended learning for languages: how to successfully integrate technology into everyday teaching

Workshop C: Caoimhín Ó Dónaill, University of Ulster
CLILSTORE: a free online multimedia authoring tool and hosting service for language teacher

Workshop D: Alannah Fitzgerald, University of Oxford IT Services, TOETOE International project, University of Waikato Greenstone Open Source Digital Library Software Lab (NZ), FLAX project
FLAX weaving with Oxford Open Educational Resources: open practices and resources for English Language Teaching

See videos and information about the 2012 e-symposium at:

www.llas.ac.uk/events/archive/6395